About Education Plan +

Quality education remains the single most important investment that you will ever make for your child. The education that you invest in your child ensures that your child discovers his or her gifts, talents and profession and thereby transiting to gainful employment, career development and a livelihood.

Besides the opportunity to build a thriving career, the schools and education that your child accesses especially in high school and university will impact his or her life skills, peer impact, balanced development and lifelong friends.

As a parent, it is therefore very crucial that you remain well prepared to provide the best education for your child.

However, as the social, cultural and economic environment keeps changing, it is no longer enough just to save up for your child's education. You will now need to get prepared long in advance so as not to get caught up and compromise on your child's education at the nick of time.

Below are some of the reasons why you need to have a solid plan for your child's future education;

- ✓ Quality Shift from Public to Private – As public education continues to get challenged by few demoralized teachers, strikes and poor facilities, value will shift to private learning institutions even for the high schools and universities. This will translate to higher costs.
- ✓ In Future, You May Have to Pay for Best Quality – As competition for top private schools increase, the price is bound to rise and therefore, quality education will become expensive.
- ✓ The Uncertain Job and Business Market – With retrenchments, downsizing and uncertain business environment, it is advisable to have an income alternative. EP+ has just the right opportunity for you.
- ✓ Our Westernized Culture – As we become more westernized, the social fabric is becoming weaker and it is now becoming increasingly important to have a life assurance policy to cover for your child's education in case of untimely death.
- ✓ The GCE/844 Question – There are still an ongoing debate on which education system is best for your child's balanced development and career opportunities. However, some education systems will cost you significantly more than others. However, it is important not to choose an education system for your child based on affordability.

- ✓ Do Not Limit Your Child – As our way of life keeps changing, so do the career opportunities available. Careers like web programming are only 10 years old. Who knows what careers will be available in another 10 years. And some of the careers can be quite pricy. Piloting will for example cost you in the millions. Therefore, to avoid limiting the career options available for your child, it is advisable that you are financially prepared for any career choice.
